For:	This award is given for Spectacular Egyptian costumes and impressive technology, topped by a pyramid-dropping scarab Creature.
Text:	Not only was the team's solution imaginative, it was also thoughtfully designed and used many different engineering techniques. The Egyptian theme was pervasive, from the rising pyramid and expanding Sphinx to the chomping scarab. The team integrated all facets of their solution within the parameters of their design philosophy. The Appraisal Team was impressed with how the team fully embraced the theme and the many technical requirements of the Challenge.

For:	This award is given for A delightfully elegant machine that walked onto the site, relying on a balance of eight legs run by a single motor.
Text:	From the moment it walked onto the Presentation Site until the moment it walked back off again, Blueth had us in awe. This creature, based on a Theo Jansen style walking machine, combined sophisticated engineering and design with a simple and elegant execution. This creature relied on a system of 8 legs powered by a single motor. This required finely tuned balance combined with a complex series of linkages to create lifelike motion. This walking ability, along with a moving head, blinking eyes, and fire-breathing capability worked to bring this creature to life.

For:	This award is given for The team's originality of a surrealistic world and their outstanding storytelling technique using a gigantic mirror.
Text:	This team created an innovative way to transport our thoughts and feelings into their surreal nightmarish world. Through hand-puppetry, the team collaboratively created singular shapes of peaceful dreamlike images with only white gloves. Then, the world transformed into a battle of dream versus nightmare. Using a larger-than-life mirror, actors glided across the floor with furniture dollies, appearing to float across an eerie city silhouette. This display, along with the ensemble's elegant puppetry, made us all question what happens when our minds are trapped in nightmares. We want to award this team for their outstanding style of storytelling and for the originality of a complex and surrealistic world.

For:	This award is given for The repurposing of retro-technology, which allowed this team to release the kraken on innovative systems engineering.
Text:	This team combined multiple technologies from the past and present to create a well-integrated and innovative Creature. Components included a 25 year old cassette tape deck, grocery scooter, Arduino, and various metal parts. There was an integrated remote controller which was a central switch for all of the Creature's actions. A broken motor was rebuilt with team-created brushes. All parts were welded by a team member who learned welding for fun and for this solution. Not only was this Creature made with mechanical and electrical systems, but there was also a pneumatic pump for spewing "water" from the kraken's mouth.

For:	This award is given for excellence in engineering design.
Text:	What seemed at first to be a simple prop literally turned into an engineering marvel. This team's die rolled multiple times without a person or a problem as the team made its way through a game of monopoly. Using clean parallel wiring, well placed braces to avoid tangling and destruction, strategically placed counterweights to ensure a smooth roll, and a pulley counterweight system to trigger the roll, this team showed how to successfully engineer from concept to completion.

Text:	This team took the Appraisers on a truly unique adventure into the world of coffee beans and tea leaves. They transported the Appraisers to their table-top perspective with giant cups and a sword-spoon battle to win the affections of the Queen of Boiling Water. Their solution was an elegant and delightful Presentation from every angle.

Text:	The quality and workmanship of the dragon costume blew the Appraisal Team away. From the articulated wings to the custom-fit mask to the hand-painted pants, the attention to detail and cohesiveness of the costume was amazing. The Appraisers were extremely impressed with the effort and design of the tail - all those small pieces woven together! This dragon costume really fired the the audience up!

Text:	This team didn't waste any time in impressing the Appraisers. Everyone's jaws dropped when they walked in with a giant owl made of soda pop cans that could move its wings, head and eyes. The Appraisers weren't "blind as a bat" when they saw their intricate gears made of melted plastic silverware or the hourglass that gained time instead of losing it. Their polished Presentation shone like only 506 pop cans could. Congratulations to Frisco ISD from Texas!

Text:	From slinkies and giant plastic tubes to metal coffee cans and flashlights, this team utilized everyday objects in innovative ways to set the scene of a terrible bacon storm that shook the Appraisal Team for hours. The team identified the unique sound and light effects they wanted, and designed one-of-a-kind noise makers and lighting technique through research and trial and error. Throughout this Presentation, the team went above and beyond the technical requirements of the Challenge to bombard the Appraisal Team with amazing sights and sounds.

For:	This award is given for using multidisciplinary research to create an elegantly simple Presentation with sophisticated scenery and characters.
Text:	This team's silence spoke volumes. With minimal dialogue, a steampunk theme and sophisticated scenery, we were struck by the elegant simplicity of their Presentation. The multidisciplinary research required to develop their solution blew the Appraisers away. The team sought out artists, magicians, and graphic designers (OH MY!) and used the knowledge they gained to polish and enhance their Presentation. All of this, not to mention their streamlined sets, eerie story, and captivating characters, took their Feary Tale to the next level.

Text:	The Appraisal Team has analyzed this team's solution and it derived that it reduced them to laughter with all its math puns. The continuous use of these puns throughout the Presentation captured the audience's undivided attention. Their comedic timing was on point, leaving the Appraisal Team on the edge of their seats. The number of puns that flowed throughout the script was unparalleled. It all added up and left the Appraisers addicted to math.

For:	This award is given for the simple but "awesome" engineering of the stage, lifelike waterfall, and fire-breathing dragon that awed everyone.
Text:	The team presented a three-pronged approach that filled the Presentation Area with incredible feats of engineering. These "Dudes" impressed the Appraisers with their intricate set that allowed their evil Queen to realistically melt away. The stage, which doubled as a storybook, was a piece of engineered art. The simple yet effective engineering of the team's flowing waterfall captivated the Appraisal Team. A coffee can, a fan, tubing, a red light and dry ice, all came together to produce a believable fire-breathing dragon. The combination of all these elements made for an "awesome" and unforgettable presentation that was to Die for.

For:	This award is given for beautifully weaving the steampunk aesthetic into their Presentation with immense attention to detail.
Text:	Through the words of Sherlock Holmes, The Cat in the Hat, Robin Hood and a diminutive paperboy, the Appraisers were transported to a steampunk world of books. The team beautifully wove the steampunk aesthetic throughout their Presentation with immense attention to detail in their set, props, and Illusion. They brought together old and new technology while conveying the importance of embracing and accepting change. As the Cat in the Hat said, "Without change, flowers wouldn't bloom and suns wouldn't set." Change is inevitable. This team changed the Appraisal Team.

For:	This award is given for bringing a storybook to life through an intricate 360° pivot set with multiple interactive special effects.
Text:	Once upon a time, a brave team conquered an insurmountable engineering feat. This team truly brought a story book to life through an intricate, 360° pivot set that allowed pages to be turned as the story progressed. Each page was bolted to a separate, independently functioning disk that had to be stacked and aligned on top of all the others to ensure the pages would flow in sync with the Presentation. Every page featured multiple special effects, such as sliding panels that revealed and rewrote words to their story, and paper flames that disappeared in an instant. Every scene change was flawlessly timed and choreographed both in front and behind the scenes to create a seamlessly executed Presentation that never slowed down for a second. The preparation and engineering that the team put into this set piece kept the audience and Appraisers anxiously awaiting the next page turn.

Text:	The Appraisal Team was immediately drawn into this team's beautiful forest for a panda birthday party. The team created multiple musical instruments and many different technical elements including an egg-laying duck drum that completely blew the appraisers away. This amazing egg laying drum was magnetically activated by a wind-up car along a track. Every time the car passed a magnetic switch, it released a metal "egg" which rolled down a ramp, struck a gong, and beat a drum; which initiated the visualization of the sound wave as a pendulum wave.

Text:	The Appraisers laughed, cried, and squeaked! Over the course of three sketches, this team displayed a range of originality, creativity, and performance ability that would be competitive at the Secondary Level. They began with a Quiz/Game Show that showcased expressive human scenery and an original poetry recital that brought down the house. Their infomercial about a living statue that plugs leaks in a boat brought tears of laughter when their pitchman offered 30% off if we acted right now. Their film trailer about being lost in space on a comet, complete with flash mob, left the audience wanting to go see the movie as soon as it comes to a theater near us. Above that, these young boys displayed humility and gracious manners. They are the epitome of what DI inspires and empowers young people to do and be.

Presentation:	Team Challenge
For:	This award is given for excellent use of engineering for the intricate set design that represents a cart full of creative "pasta-bilities."

Text:	This team created a system of expertly engineered mechanical systems to move their creativity cart and puppet. The use of tiny pulleys and marionette style manipulation created an outstanding performance that went above and beyond the Challenge requirements. Their set was designed to maximize creativity and was surprisingly multi-faceted. Not only did the team meet the required puzzle element, they exceeded it by continually introducing innovative puzzles throughout the Presentation. The joyful collaboration of this team is what DI is all about.
Team Number:	129-78580
Affiliate:	Nebraska
Organization:	St. Pius X/St. Leo
Team Challenge:	Brand Aid - Middle
Award Kind:	Da Vinci
Recipient:	Entire Team
Presentation:	Team Challenge
For:	This award is given for demonstrating an innovative solution to joining incompatible puzzle pieces while celebrating human diversity.
Text:	This team took a huge creative risk in solving the puzzle requirement with a "touching" approach. They connected the obviously incompatible puzzle pieces through the simple, yet moving action of each member joining hands. This powerful display of joining together by embracing differences clearly articulated the spirit of acceptance and the celebration of diversity.
Team Number:	135-54184
Affiliate:	Ohio
Organization:	Miamisburg City Schools
Team Challenge:	Brand Aid - Secondary
Award Kind:	Renaissance
Recipient:	Entire Team
Presentation:	Team Challenge
For:	This award is given for their "fun-nominal" performance including rapid fire rearrangements and overall outstanding execution of their solution.
Text:	The integration of the team's theme, music, Brand Band performance, rapid-fire rearrangement, and reconfiguration of the box puzzle pieces were "fun-nominal." The team members utilized the elegantly designed project puzzle to showcase their presentation in an extremely effective and well integrated manner. The smooth transitions interlaced the technical, musical, and auditory portions with the backdrop changes to produce a captivating presentation for the audience.
Team Number:	107-17779

Organization:	Pequot Homeschool
Team Challenge:	Brand Aid - Secondary
Award Kind:	Da Vinci
Recipient:	Entire Team
Presentation:	Team Challenge
For:	This award is given for their inspirational solution that included a technically sophisticated and unique pipe organ.
Text:	This team utilized poetry, theatrical verse, costumes, props, and set pieces to create a unique and inspirational Presentation. The team chose to assemble and calibrate their technically sophisticated pipe organ as their project Presentation unfolded. Their element of risk was evident as each piece of the puzzle and tonal range was tested by the team members and their a cappella numbers were interwoven in the team's unfolding story.
